- 1 Manual

USB cable and plug is NOT included

WARNING

- Never play Qecheo audio close to your ears, it is harmful
- Remove all packaging, before giving the toy to a child
- Little children playing with Qecheo should be under observation by an adult.
- Charging and setting up audio files inside sound box must be handled by an adult and keep it under observation. After charging the cable must be disconnected to prevent fire hazard. Sound box must not be played while charging, as it reduces the battery life.
- Only Qecheo audio files must be used in the sound box, otherwise it can break
- If Qecheo gets in contact with water, or if you throw it, or if you try to pull out the sound box, it can cause damage and break the sound box inside the toy permanently.

Charging Qecheo

The sound box in Qecheo has a built-in battery, which is recharged via USB. In Qecheo's back there is an opening to connect to the sound box cable. An adult connects it with an USB-cable to the computer or a socket. You can use any standard plug with the USB.

When it's charging there is a lamp that lights red. When the red light goes off, the sound box is fully charged. Full charging takes up to 1 hour, which gives 150 minutes to play (nonstop).

The sound box must not be played while charging as it reduces battery life.

Good to know:

When the child has not played with Qecheo for 5 minutes, the sound box goes to standby, saving the battery time. Hence, it is not necessary to switch it off manually.

CE Certificate

Qecheo is tested and approved according to the applicable safety and environmental compliance regulation in EU/UK. Qecheo is suitable from the age 10 months.

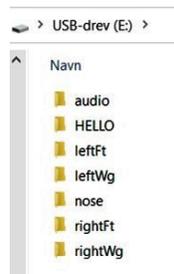

Guarantee

According to the Purchase law ("Købeloven"), you have 2 years product guarantee. It means, if you experience a defects in the toy, within 2 years time from the date you bought it, you can report it to www.qecheo.dk, and our team will investigate it. Please note, the guarantee lapses, if you do not comply with the warnings, described in the Instructions manual.

Further guidance and contact information can be found on www.qecheo.dk.

Setup Audio Files in Qecho

- From Qecho's back, connect the sound box cable to your computer via USB-cable
- Ensure Qecho is on (Check ON button in the back) .
- Your computer* detects a new drive, which you must accept.
- In the file explorer, you see your Qecho's folder structure. There is a folder for each button.
- You can insert or delete audio files in the following folders:
 - LeftFt = Left foot
 - LeftWg = Left wing
 - Nose = Beak
 - RightFt = Right foot
 - RightWg = Right Wing

If you want audio files to play in a specific order, you can prefix file name with a number, empty the folder and insert the audio files one by one into the folder in the desired order.

Always remember; after setting up audio files in the sound box, restart sound box by switching OFF and then ON from Qecho's back.

*Following operating system is supported: Mac and Windows

Wrong use of Sound Box

- Do not use audio files other than those downloaded from www.Qecho.dk, otherwise the sound box will break
- You may insert or delete audio files only in the 5 button folders:
 - LeftFt
 - LeftWg
 - Nose
 - RightFt
 - RightWg
- You cannot change audio files in other folders then the once mentioned above
- You cannot change, create, delete folders inside Qecho sound box

Standard Audio Files in the Sound Box

By default, the sound box contains audio files in different categories. To customize the sound box, remove or add the audio files as you wish (read instructions on page 4-5).

Qecho SOUND-CATEGORIES

Qecho's sound box has 512 MB storage. It means it can contain a lot of Qecho audio files. If you exceed the total capacity, you need to remove audio files.

Create Your Own Sounds

You can create sounds for your Qecho using Qecho Mobile App for IOS and Google: "Qecho Voice Recorder". For Guidance go to www.qecho.dk.

Maintenance of Qecho

Clean Qecho gently with a slightly damp cloth. Do not let the sound box inside Qecho get wet, otherwise it may be damaged.
